A COAT STORY.

The Famous Item About The Consump tion of Circus Posters By a Connect leut Goat.

of the most interesting things, or aggregations of things, in the world is a circus. This fact is acknowledged by the world generally, and in the literature of circus posters in particular, and is appreciated by such men as ex Gov. Hayes and Dr. Talmage. Hardly less interesting than a circus is a goat. It follows, therefore, that if a circus and a goat be made to figure in the same event, or train of events.

ford man's goat devoured some circus posters and died, whereupon the man sued the circus men for the value of his goat, and the circus men sucd him for the value of their posters. This item was printed in an obscure part of the paper, but it blazed out like a comet athwart the sky when the myriads of stars are made to disappear, and the heavens to look black by comparison with its effulgence. There was no computing the magnitude of such an item in respect to its sug-

Regarded from the standpoint of the partisans of the goat: A creature at lowest market rates. All ont spring poor, strolled along the highway, his nodding head keeping time to the rattle of oyster cans and pop bottles within him; gazing up-ward and outward on either side, as is the habit of the goat, he saw the ten-der green and luscious red of the spring show bill, and standing on his hind legs he inserted a horn beneath the paper and stripped it from the bill board; then he fell to feeding upon the succulent circum roater.

Regarded from the other standpoint A predatory goat having gorged him-self on those forms of nutriment which are to his taste, actuated by no other motive than pure malice, attacks and devours works of art; the Albino woman, the fair trapezist, and she who describes the circle of the horizon with one great toe while poising herself on the back of an untamed Arabian steed with the other, in quick succession disappear into his capacious maw. Swift retribution overtakes him, but that does not compensate for the set-back that high art has suffered, and damages are demanded from the own er of the goat. These and countless other features the trials of the two suits: and, with the view of bringing them out sooner, at least three New York newspapers sent reporters to Stratford. The results of their labors may be summarized a follows: The goat is an unknown ani-mal in Stratford; there has been no circus in Stratford this season; goat-circus story was a fabrication; the resident correspondent from whom it emanated has received a very special and solemn warning never to so again; he has given his word of honor as a gentleman, a scholar, and an admirer of goats and circuses that the won't.

Such must have been the course of reasoning by which the resident correspondent in Stratford of a Connecticut daily newspaper brought himself to the point of writing an item which in substance was as follows: A Stratford man's goat devoured some circus

The situation at Chicago to-day sems still more unfavorable to Grant's nces of being nominated than it was yesterday. The Anti-Grant men have been victorious at every point so far. The Committee of Arrangements, composed exclusively of Grant men, has been displaced, and in the new committee the opposition are in the majority. The opponents of Grant have named the temporary chairman, George F. Hoar. The enforcement of the unit tule has been left for the Convention to decide, and there is little likelihood that it will be enforced. It was upon the operation of this rule that Grant's chances of success have been held to lie. The defection of twenty three of the Pennsylvania and twenty-two of the New York delegates from the ranks of the ex-President seems disastrous to his

Sherman seems to be the candidate who is growing most in strength. In the event of Grant's defeat, which now seems probable, his partizans are expected to combine for the defeat of Blaine. The Blaine men are unlikely to give their support to Washburne, owing to his friendly attitude towards Grant, and the majority of them will probably go for Sherman.

The adjournment of the Conven tion until eleven o'clock to-morrow makes it unlikely that the choice of a candidate will be made before Friday. No one knows what a day may bring forth in a political convention, but at the time of the present writing both the Grant and Blaine "columns" seen too weak to build a nomination upon.

Opening of the Convention.

CHICAGO, June 2, 1:03 P. M. The Exhibition building in which the National Republican Convention is being held, presents a scene of striking interest. The platform occupies the south side, under it being a section arranged for committee-men, guests, reporters and correspondents. The roof, side, and every available part of the building are handsomely decorated. At the north end is a large picture of Abraham Lincoln. In the centre of the canvas is a strip bearing the motto: "And that government of the people, by the people, for ment of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the face of the earth." At 13:30 the delegates were generally in their seats.

George P. H. ar Temporary Chairman The Convention was called to order at one o'clock. The temporary chairman, George F. Hoar, was elected unstimously. The roll of States is being called for the appointment of committees on resolutions, eredentials, etc.

Utah being excluded on the roll of states and territories, Frye asked that it be included. Conkling objected. The Chair decided that it be called. All questions on contested delegations are referred to the Committee on Credentials. Protests from Alabama, Ilinois, Louisiana and Pennsylvania are so referred. A resolution passed, giving 500 seats daily to veterans.

The Convention Adjourned Until To

2:35 P. M.-Conkling moved that the Convention adjourn until 11 A. M. to-morrow. Hale opposed the motion. The motion was carried.

ANOTHER RAILROAD.

The Narrow Gauge From Wadsworth to

Ex-Goveror Woods of Oregon, who made several speeches here during the detention of the Boston excursion party, is one of the prime movers in the project of a railroad south from Wadsworth. He passed through Reno last evening returning to San Francisco from a flying trip to
Carson- A representative of the GAZETTE met him at the depot and asked for information concerning the prospects of the road's being built.
The ev-Governor replied that the survey now being made will be completed in a few days, and that upon its completion the work of construction will be immediately commenced. He said that the Company intend to build the road from Wadsworth to Candelaria as fast as possible. An ample force of men will be employed to prosecute the work with all possible

After freely imparting this information, the ex-Governor said that it was not the desire of the Company to make any noise about their road at present, and hinted that he would be well pleased if nothing were said about it. But, as the information was given to a reporter, as such, and with-out any injunction to secrecy, the in-telligence is published for what it is worth, for news is news.

The arrest of Hi Wah in Virginia last week, on a charge of kidnaping, has created quite a commotion among the celestials all along the line. friends of Hi Wah maintain his innocence, and declare that it is a job put up by the Hop Sing Company to wreak vengence on Hi Wah for having got the better of them in certain contracts. The Hop Sing Company are reported to have said they will not let up until and Charley Jack, are in the State Prison or the grave. Charlie Jack informed a GAZETTE reporter that all three of the men just named are in mortal fear of their lives. He seems to feel that their doom is sealed. Each of them now carries a pass book, wherein they have their whereabouts noted, by white men, at every step. Another great, unpardonable sin committed by Hi Wah and his friends

Wah, Ah Jack and Charley Jack are very intelligent Chinamen, are well-known in this community, and in a business way, have the confidence of some of the best men, both here and in Carson. Should they be assassinated in this town, the chances are that our "801" would save the county the expense of prosecuting their assassins of whom are already spotted.

Opening of the Methodist Fulr. The Methodist fair opened last evening in the Pavilion with a large attendance by the general public. The fair is held on the upper floor of the building. The fancy work exhibited for sale showed good taste in design and painstaking skill in execution. There were refreshment tables groan ing with their weight of strawberries and cream, ice cream, refrigerated chickens and other toothsome viands. "Ice cool lemonade" was dispensed by a liberal hand. The postal depart-ment was under most efficient manage-ment. No one enquiring for a letter is allowed to go away disappointed. The lady clerks will obligingly write

THE COMING F. TRST.

An Indian Festival Soon to 1 on the River's Bank

The Indian festivities over th. turn of sommer have not yet cease The ignoble red men are now scattered over the mountains and hills in pursuit of the timid deer, or spearing the speckled trout on the "riffles" where the shallow waters run. On Saturday of next week the highways and byways, the sarrow paths by the river and the devious trails through the sagebrush will be dotted with the returning braves, ladened with the spoils of the spear and the chase. On Sat-urday night the smoke of a score of camp fires will ascend from the flat across the river and the feast of plenty will commence. Juicy venison steaks will hiss and broil upon the hot coals, and the bright flesh of the Truckee front will turn to a deeper red under the heat of the flames. Around the fires will gather the young and the old of the tribe, the gray-haired sac-hem in his closely folded blanket with the pipe of peace between his lips, and the little Indian boy with the fragments of a pair of cast-off trousers scantily covering his nakedness. Braves and squaws, boys and papooses will alike share in the feast. Then the circle will form on the level ground, all will join hands, and keeping time to the slowly sung monotonous chant, the dance of the hunter's feast will commence. A picturesque sight it will be, by the light of the blazing fires, and with the new moon hanging low in
